With the mighty Rhine to the east and towering Eifel mountains to the west, and the fertile wine-growing Ahr valley in-between.

The capital is a twin-town, Bad Neuenahr-Ahrweiler, with the elegant Bad Neuenahr and its famous spas and a formal casino on one side of the river. Ahrweiler on the other bank is a dreamy medieval village within its formidable walls. Here you will find a myriad of winding pedestrian streets and half-timbered buildings.

Similar in style is the ancient Remagen on the Rhine itself, which has several castles overlooking the town from on high.

The Formula 1 course Nürburgring is in the Ahrweiler District as well, nestled in the protection of the Eifel forests filled with fir trees and wildlife — including some rare birds.

The pretty Ahr valley is well known for its orchards and vineyards, although its Burgundy red wines (Rotwein) don't get to travel far — what with all their tasting festivals and the tours they organize throughout the season!
