

Losheim am See Is A Must-See For Water Babies Of Both Ages

Losheim am See is one instant where cosmetic surgery has enhanced appearances a hundred fold. Let me explain...

As if the town wasn't pretty enough they went ahead and added an artificial lake right where it is the most picturesque. The result? A wonderful paradisaical piece of property that you simply can't say good bye to.

Losheim am See is rightly proud of this piece of work and so the Recreation Center Reservoir is definitely the right place to start enjoying your tour of the city.

Get going with pedal boats, fishing, mini-golf, beach volley ball, kids play ground, and multi-cuisine dining right there by the lake. Its location amidst the Naturpark Saar-Hunsrück high up on a scenic hill side certainly adds to the thrill.

In addition to the wonders of the lake, you have well marked out hiking and biking trails and footpaths that are connected to the lake at some point.

From the waters of Losheim take to the tracks of the Railway Museum. Get aboard an old-fashioned steam locomotive that takes you on a Museum Trip through what's gotta be one of the finest scenery in the land. This 15 km trip is surely worth the two hours that you need to set apart for it.

If you loved the scenery on this trip, you should consider visiting the Eco-Village laid out in the countryside. You can camp out here by the lake shore amidst perfectly serene surroundings and get to fall in love with nature all over again. Also, the facilities at the Reservoir are accessible to those at Eco-Village.

Now, isn't that an awesome deal? ;-)
